Wedding Bells

INGER DAHL

A very quiet wedding of interest to Irma people took place in the Presbyterian Church at Wainwright on Saturday afternoon, October 13th, when Miss Ida Josephine Dahl, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Dahl, of Court, Sask., and Mr. John Enger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Enger, of Winter, Sask., formerly of Irma, were united in marriage by Rev. Mr. Brooker. Mrs. Annie Walker and daughter, Susie, of Wainwright, attended as witnesses. After the ceremony the bridal couple motored to the home of the groom's brother, Mr. Martin Enger, Irma, where they visited until Monday morning, then going by train to Winter, Sask., their future home. The times extends best wishes for their future happiness.

Wedding Dance Enjoyed

The free wedding dance put on by James Pond of the Club Cafe, Irma, in Kiefer's hall, Tuesday evening, October 16, in honor of his son James Pond Jr. and bride, was a very enjoyable affair. It was estimated there were at least five hundred people in attendance, some coming a distance of fifty miles. Coulton's orchestra supplied excellent music as usual and everyone thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

Just before lunch was served the bride and groom were escorted to the stage and introduced to the audience by the efficient floor manager, Mr. Jack Fletcher, after which all joined in singing "For he's a jolly good fellow" and giving three rousing cheers for the newly-weds. A well prepared lunch, which of course was free, was then served in the hall, after which dancing was resumed until 3 a.m.

Those who attended the dance appreciate very much the kindness and generosity of Mr. Pond Sr. and his son and daughter-in-law in going to the expense and trouble of giving all such a good time.

Echoes From Provincial W.C.T.U. Convention At Calgary Oct. 1934

At what point to begin and what to embrace in reporting a three-day convention brimful of inspirational messages and to commit to paper the highlights in the limited space that may be apportioned among the records of the week's activities is a difficult situation to deal with.

Dr. Dobson alone deserves more mention than can be accorded to the full nine sessions besides innumerable executive and committee meetings. His address was bristling with scientific facts, as well as revealing some of the tactics of the liquor people in the recent Saskatchewan campaign, while at the same time it was a well developed scheme. He threw light on the present situation, outlined distinctly plans for spreading information, gave tribute to the systematic and executive ability that are planting seeds for future generations to reap in a harvest of fruitful temperance.

Mr. Dobson's address was the pivot on which to swing the torch of progress. A strong, stirring address, vital in its exhibition of what is going on in the lines of the liquor traffic, inspiring in its zeal for the truths which science is affirming with proof indubitable. He stated that the beer-by-the-glass campaign in Sask. was financed by the liquor interests, as far as their side was concerned, and the election was carried on with no scruples! Seventy thousand (70,000) more dry votes were cast than in the campaign of 1910 of previous which is the highest dry vote in the province. And this with one-tenth the funds in the temperance ranks. So he was not disengaged. Dr. Dobson staunchly quoted "You can lose a battle and yet win the war." He said four of the hopeful signs of the times are:

1. The world-wide health movement.
2. Efficiency.
3. Economics, and
4. Reflective thought.

Reports of departments revealed some excellent work done. Alberta, won six of the Dominion prizes in the Sunday school campaign; the quality of the provincial papers was highly commended by headquarters; and 15 per cent increase in number of certificates ordered this year. A hundred dollars was expended for Canadianization. Forty dollars in cheques were presented to public school pupils and high school students as provincial prizes in the essay and poster contests. Mrs. F. Locke voiced some of the links of sympathy between the W.M.S. and the W.C.T.U. activities. Another Calgary woman made a beautiful and very effective plan for the continuation of efforts to train toward world peace. Another department, that of anti-gambling, was added to our provincial system.

Mrs. Hyslop conducted an inspiring memorial service. The banquet at 6 p.m. Tuesday was outstanding in the character of its after-dinner speeches. A feature always good, but never better. Major Habirk of the Salvation Army gave splendid points on prison reform. An excellent plan of work was drawn up and splendid resolutions drafted that spoke the earnestness, the wisdom and the executive ability of our women. Group conferences, under the heads of Evangelistic, Preventive, Education and Legislation were prolific of good results. The practical value of the findings of which will be woven with the next year's work.

Much business was accomplished and many inspiring messages delivered.

Mrs. White would not stand for re-election. The new sub-executive consists of: President, Mrs. Grace Knight of 11041 86th Ave., Edmonton; Vice-president, Mrs. Hyslop, Viking; Cor. Sec., Mrs. Wm. White, Nanton; Rec. Sec., Mrs. E. Stewart, Parkland.

A bunch of efficient women, loyal and experienced in the work of the splendid organization.

"I don't see why your history lesson should bother you so," said a school ma'am here to a boy pupil; "they didn't bother me when I was a girl." Well, there wasn't so much history when you was a girl," the boy replied.

Some girls are still very helpful around the house, says a careful observer. They keep good lively programs on the radio while mother washes the dishes.

The Forty-Ninth Parallel

An interesting and thought-provoking editorial article appeared recently in a popular magazine which circulates extensively throughout Canada and the United States. Its subject was the forty-ninth parallel across the world. The people of the North American continent regard it as an imaginary line which marks the boundary between the United States and Canada, but, says this magazine editor, the wise ones of the earth regard it as something more than a hair line on the earth's globe. It is, he says, the world's line of destiny.

Elaborating his theme he first directs attention to the fact that in America this invisible international boundary line is a line of peace. No frowning fortifications dot its length; no jealousies are pent up along its borders; no racial hatreds batter its boundaries. For more than one hundred years it has been a line of peace, a magnificent contradiction of the Old World's barbaric philosophy that two neighboring countries cannot long exist without strife.

But tracing the course of the forty-ninth parallel around the globe, he finds that the symbol of peace in North America becomes the blood-drenched line of strife throughout Europe and Asia, cleaving through the very heart of the world's most troubled zones. He continues:

"The 'line of peace,' upon spanning the Pacific, marks the frontier of Asia's powder magazine—the northern boundary of Manchukuo. On one side the armies of the Soviet maintain their well armed vigil. On the other Japan bides her time in the puppet state that typifies her first triumphal toe-hold on the mainland of Asia."

"Travel with the 'line of peace' across the flux and change of the new Red Russia and note its sinister significance as it pierces the inner core of European turmoil. It traverses the Polish Corridor, constant source of statesmen's uneasiness; flanks Austria's troubled boundaries; bisects a re-armed Germany; skirts the fringe of France at the most jealous point of national pride, historic Alsace-Lorraine; tops the rims of armored steel that mark Belgium's sullen frontiers; then wings the Atlantic for its more peaceful mission on this continent."

And he asks why should this "line of peace" assume such a devilish perniciousness in its travel round the globe, and finds the answer in the character of the nations it touches rather than the nature of the line itself.

All of which is true. In North America the two adjoining nations are peopled by those who speak a common language and who, although there has come a great intermingling of many races, still trace their main descent to one racial source and have proved their ability to, in large measure, assimilate those newcomers of many races and all have largely forgotten, or dropped, the old animosities, suspicions, jealousies and hatreds of by-gone centuries which are nourished and kept alive in the countries of the world.

America is fortunate in this, and stands as an object lesson to all other lands. This being so, why we have been as good neighbors as we ought to have been? have we taken full advantage of and reaped all the benefits that should have accrued us as a result of our preferred position? True, we have kept the peace in a physical sense in that we have refrained from war, and the incessant folly of building up huge armaments one against the other on the false assumption that only through such so-called "preparedness" can peace be maintained.

But the forty-ninth parallel across North America is not quite the imaginary line it might well have been to the advancement and benefit of people living on both sides of it. There are no forts, but there are all too many legislative barriers imposed along its entire length by both countries, barrierson the one side being duplicated by similar barriers on the other side.

We build our roads on both sides to meet and merge at the boundary line; we construct our railways to the same gauge in order that trains may move without pause from one country to the other, without the hindrance of passengers or goods; the two waves flow unimpeded across the line carrying radio messages to and fro, and the same is true of the telegraph and telephone, of books and newspapers and magazines, our automobiles cross and re-cross, our mails move without restraint or loss of time; our trades unions are international in their character; so, too, are our fraternal societies and service clubs; our sporting organizations vie with each other on common grounds.

Being so favored, and having done so much to promote our common interests in so many ways, and having developed an international friendliness unknown elsewhere, and having utilized all that science and invention has bestowed in order to promote this fine and mutually advantageous intercourse, why have we proceeded to erect artificial barriers to check and stop the flow of trade which all these other agencies have been perfected to encourage and develop? The people of both countries are deemed to be highly intelligent; they are not inmates of lunatic asylums. Then why have they acted so absurdly as to hamper and cripple that which they have spent untold millions in creating?

There is only one answer, and that answer is to be found in the caputality of man individually and collectively, on both sides of the "line of peace." Nature designed that the northern half of this great continent should be the complement of and to the southern half. The Maritime Provinces with their resources are the natural complement of the Atlantic seaboard States; Quebec and Ontario are the complement of the Central States; the Prairies and the West are the complement of the middle western States right down to the great British Columbia is the complement of the Pacific coast States. Yet puny man tries to defy Nature and, as a result, has made a sorry mess of things throughout the whole realm of practical North America.

The forty-ninth parallel across North America is a splendid object lesson, all the more so in this case, respect. Let us use two great peoples do the sensible thing and set another object lesson for and provide leadership to a world now suffering because of the wholesale destruction of international trade.

Plenty Of Color

If it's a color you want, says the Edmonton Journal, a new "dictionay" just published by the British color council, ought to fill the bill. With 220 shades given in color and supplied each with a name, it should now be possible to "match" a stocking or a bit of wool for your wife or even to give an exact description of the most variegated of sunsets.

Would Conserve Moisture

Immediate international action to save Western Canada from more extensive drought damage was held necessary by Sheriff Malcolm McGregor of Brandon, when he returned from a 3,000 mile motor trip through the prairie provinces. He recommended damming of rivers until they hold the normal running flow of an average crop year.

Shops Of Curio Dealers In Delhi, India, Contain Many Treasures

What is the richest street in the world? Without taking into account the environs of the Stock Exchange and Wall Street, where unseen fortunes change hands, the little-known Chandni Chowki in Delhi has substantial claims. It has often been referred to as the richest street in Asia, and, unlike our own commercial thoroughfares, the greater part of its wealth is there for all to see. But many are the treasures which are hidden away in secret recesses of the shops of curio dealers and jewellers in that picturesque street. One of the dealers, the walls of whose establishment are covetous with letters of appointment from Highnesses and Excellencies of all descriptions, has manufactured countless wondrous golden and jewelled embroideries for crowned heads and ruling princes. He was responsible for the historic peacock gown, costing no less than thirty thousand pounds, which the late Lady Cawnpore wore at the Durbar Ball, attended by four thousand guests in the Delhi Fort in 1908. Here also are all the richest of the embroidery merchants, whose cloths and cloaks, accented with costly ornaments, are not only intended for reigning princes, but for State elephants. Here, too, are the carvers of ivory, and the traveler can see them exhibiting their skill in evolving delicate figures and animals from solid blocks of ivory, sawn from elephant tusks.

Woman's Long Search For a Remedy

The trouble with most remedies for constipation, as this woman found, is that they give only temporary relief. Having at last found a permanent corrective, she writes to us about it:

"For upwards of 30 years I was a victim of acute constipation. I tried practically everything that it was possible to try. I admit I was a chronic case, and every new remedy I tried helped for a day or two, after that I was just as bad as ever. Three months ago I took my first taste of Kruschen Salts, and every morning since I have been passing stool as I live. My first duty upon rising is to take a Kruschen Salt. My bowels act to the clock, and my friends remark how well I am looking. My only regret is I didn't try Kruschen salts years ago." (Mrs.) A. M.

Kruschen Salts is Nature's recipe for maintaining a condition of intestinal cleanliness. The six salts in Kruschen stimulate your internal organs to smooth, regular action. Your system is thus kept clear of those impurities which, allowed to accumulate, lower the whole tone of the system.

YOUR LIVER'S MAKING YOU FEEL OUT OF SORTS

Wake up your Liver Bile

—No Camelot needed

When you feel like depression, nervousness, or a lack of energy, it's that your liver isn't pouring its due proportion of liquid bile into your body.

Dissolve a slim tablet of Phillips Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water, laxative candy or chewing gum, or dissolve in a glass of milk.

You need a liver stimulant. Carter's Little Liver Pills is the best one. Take Purdy's Liver Substitutes. Ask for the tablets. Refill substitutes. At all drugstores. $2.50 a bottle.

Is Reaching Danger Point

Many persons seem to think that the spending possibilities of the Government are limitless, but they lose sight of the fact that every dollar appropriated for public purposes has to come from the taxpayer. What they also forget is that there is a danger line in taxation which is reached when the levies become so oppressive that they cannot be tolerated.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Cross-Word Puzzle

The cross-word puzzle, seen before the jig-saw puzzle, seems destined to have a longer life. It is remarkable that it finds a place in such grave publications as the London Times, the Manchester Guardian, the New Statesman and Nation, the Spectator and the Observer.

Germany contains more than 2,300 youth hostels. These hostels are provided as an overnight stopping place for young hikers.

Shops Of Curio Dealers In Delhi, India, Contain Many Treasures

What is the richest street in the world? Without taking into account the environs of the Stock Exchange and Wall Street, where unseen fortunes change hands, the little-known Chandni Chowki in Delhi has substantial claims. It has often been referred to as the richest street in Asia, and, unlike our own commercial thoroughfares, the greater part of its wealth is there for all to see. But many are the treasures which are hidden away in secret recesses of the shops of curio dealers and jewellers in that picturesque street. One of the dealers, the walls of whose establishment are covetous with letters of appointment from Highnesses and Excellencies of all descriptions, has manufactured countless wondrous golden and jewelled embroideries for crowned heads and ruling princes. He was responsible for the historic peacock gown, costing no less than thirty thousand pounds, which the late Lady Cawnpore wore at the Durbar Ball, attended by four thousand guests in the Delhi Fort in 1908. Here also are all the richest of the embroidery merchants, whose cloths and cloaks, accented with costly ornaments, are not only intended for reigning princes, but for State elephants. Here, too, are the carvers of ivory, and the traveler can see them exhibiting their skill in evolving delicate figures and animals from solid blocks of ivory, sawn from elephant tusks.

The trouble with most remedies for constipation, as this woman found, is that they give only temporary relief. Having at last found a permanent corrective, she writes to us about it:

"For upwards of 30 years I was a victim of acute constipation. I tried practically everything that it was possible to try. I admit I was a chronic case, and every new remedy I tried helped for a day or two, after that I was just as bad as ever. Three months ago I took my first taste of Kruschen Salts, and every morning since I have been passing stool as I live. My first duty upon rising is to take a Kruschen Salt. My bowels act to the clock, and my friends remark how well I am looking. My only regret is I didn't try Kruschen salts years ago." (Mrs.) A. M.

SNYOPSIS

"You've fallen heir to a half-share in your old trouble," said Gerald Keene. "The Broken Spur has been systematically looting the ranch, and old Joe Carr, your 'partner,' is drinking himself into ruin."

Dad Kane, the fat and luckless prospector all now, is returning to tell Dustin and Spike Goddard, owners of the Broken Spur ranch, who had granted him, of his discovery of rich gold veins, and shows samples of them to him. He sees Broken Spur men rustling Hour-glass cattle and protests against it.

(Now Go On With The Story)

This time Spike scoffed openly. It was no secret on any ranch in Seco Valley that Edith Carr, the red-headed, fiery-tempered daughter of the old owners of the Hour-glass, did exactly as she chose. So did her father . . . in most things for she dominated even the old dog man whom most men feared. Edith was not red-headed for nothing and Dustin had discovered it once to his sorrow. When he and Spike had first bought up the loose script that gave them title to the Broken Spur, he had vaguely noted the red-headed unformed schoolgirl who occasionally went to the infrequent Valley dances. Then five years passed; she became the rage and he was suddenly aware that the unformed girl had developed almost overnight into the perfectly formed woman whom men openly coveted.

It was a full two years since Dustin saw her when his eyes were opened. She was coming out of the post office in Seco and he, about to enter, stood as though paralyzed at sight of her. Her gray eyes stared at him unseeingly and her bright head was upturned as she passed and a couple of "dry farmers" giggled. Dustin flushed. He did not know nor would he have cared had he known that that very morning old Joe Carr had commented on his known conduct at a Mexican dance and on a household that he maintained in Sepulveda. Dustin raised his hat and stepped up to her.

"Aren't you goin' to say 'Good morning'?" he asked quizzically.

"To you? Why? . . ." Edith stopped and looked at him as one might look at a mangy dog and then looked burned even Sam Dustin.

"I'd like to walk up the street with you," he suggested.

The loafers at the office-door did not hear his words but they saw him, drop into step with her and they nudged each other. Then they saw her stop and draw herself up. There was no mistaking her words. They came with the whirl and snap of a whip-lash:

"The street is open to the public, I believe," she said. "When I walk with any one it will not be with a 'squaw man'."

That was all. Dustin, the big man of the Broken Spur, dropped back

His face was white with wrath and his lips were set. The men who saw it all never said a word about it till they got safely home but after that, word spread. They watched him snatch his horse from the tie-rack and they preserved the silence of the damned till his horse was swallowed up in a dust-wreath. Then:

"She sure set fire to his shirt-tail," quoth old Styles. The others giggled uncomfortably. They knew Dustin fairly well.

Sam Dustin neither forgave nor forgot that incident and more than once he had planned revenge but no opportunity came his way. That one hot encounter marked Edith Carr as the only person in the Valley worth the time and patience to tame her and Dustin swore to himself that tamed she should some day be. Some day he would bring her to heel.

He had seen enough not to try to force his attention on her. He knew old Joe Carr too well for that the old man was one of the old breed that held their women-folk sacred. The man must be better than ordinary to get his legs under old Joe Carr's table where the pretty Edith held sway. That was also the beginning of trouble for the Hour-glass ranch.

It was a big ranch. For miles its wire fence hung up into the hills and its broad ranges pastured many cattle. But hard luck dogged old Joe Carr's narrow heels. First he dropped to nine dollars! Then to six . . . ! Then a bucking pony slammed him against a bucking-post in the corral and broke his leg in two places. The break healed imperfectly. It had to be rebroken twice and the pain and the irritation over being a cripple when every man was urgently needed, awoke the old fear that had never really subsided since Edith's mother was laid away in the little burying-ground under the great alamos cottonwoods. . . . From day to day Edith tried gallantly to stop that solitary drinking. She saw her father go into his office after supper; she saw the door close and she knew only too well what was taking place behind that closed door.

Twice she tried to force an entry but each time she was repelled and the door was locked. Sick at heart, for she knew what the trouble was, she fled to old Frank Crewe, the foreman.

"Is there no way to make him stop?" she sobbed. "Oh, Frank! You know what it means! He's too good a man to go wrong at a time like this."

Crewe nodded. "He's too good a man to run off the straight at all," he said. "I've busted his bottles till the back-corral looks like a bankrupt glass foundry. Miss Edith, but I'll be darned if I can make him see sense. The size of the matter is that he's just plumb worshipp' himself into his bed and he's drinkin' to keep out of it. Darn him! He ought to know that with times like they are those two men Dustin and Goddard over at the Broken Spur are just settin' up at nights waitin' for a chance at him. If he ain't darned careful they'll git it too."

They did get their chance and they knew well how to take advantage when it came their way. They both knew what was taking place at the Hour-glass. A drinking boss means a careless bunk-house and any ranchman knows what that means. It spells disaster.

The result was not quick-moving. It came with the slow growth of an avalanche. That moves very slowly at first till sheer weight overcomes inertia. Then it becomes suddenly dangerous. That first slow danger showed first in a slight lessening of the number of calves branded . . .

Then a long line of fence broke down and no one discovered it till too late. Cattle strayed off the range ranges and if they calved at all, brought forth their young in hidden places where no one discovered them till too late. Then a few calves with slit tongues . . . That told its own story to range-bred men . . . Calves whose tongues were slit to keep them from sucking their own dams . . .

Then followed a gradual drop in the grade of the herd . . . Any one could see it! And finally the open legal row over Soda Springs.

High Heaven alone knew why those pools were called Soda Springs. There were three of them; great jets of clear cold water that sprang from the wall of the upper valley and formed a deep pool at the end of the canon. In that great pool water-cress grew rankly and cattle stood knee-deep in the water under the great trees. Soda Springs was a constant and never failing source of water supply even in the long dry season when no rains fell. To the sick and injured Joe Carr the news came like a thunderclap that Dustin and Goddard had brought suit over the validity of his own claim to the ownership of those springs. No one had ever thought to question his ownership be-

St. Paul's Cathedral

Saving Edifice From Encroachments Of Modern Commercialism

Considerable progress has been made during recent weeks with a scheme for surrounding St. Paul's Cathedral with a "sacred area" within which no deep excavations would be allowed which might endanger the shallow foundations of the building.

Such a scheme was first proposed in 1912, but nothing much came of it on behalf of the Cathedral authorities or on behalf of the cathedral authorities, sent a letter to the Lord Mayor inviting the corporation to help in protecting the cathedral.

The matter was referred to a special committee of the corporation, and they have been helped by a report on the subsoil and foundations of the cathedral, drawn up after over two years' investigation, by Sir Alexander Gibb and Mr. Ralph Freeman. The report was accompanied by a model showing the underground condition of the city from Bowes Street (turning off Fleet Street) to the Bank of England.

The special committee have recently been drafting a Bill in which it is hoped parliament will establish the controlled area. Though the details of the bill are not yet available, it is expected that it will be submitted to the House of Commons in November and become law next spring.

The editor of the journal of the Architects' Institute remarks that "the acceptance of this scheme, for which Canon Alexander has striven for many years, is of significance not only because of the specific protection afforded to St. Paul's Cathedral, but because it marks the establishment of the principle that a great work should be protected, if necessary by Act of Parliament, from the encroachment of modern commercialism."

University of Minnesota Co-Ed Has Design Accepted For Bridge

A 21-year-old University of Minnesota co-ed, who will not receive her degree in the engineering school until next June, was disclosed as the designer of the plan accepted for the new $2,075,000 bridge to be constructed across the Missouri river at Omaha, Neb. She is Edith Reed, of Minneapolis, working her own way through the university, and who developed the plan while in bed recuperating from an automobile accident.

But the days of the Open Range had passed and along with them went the old-time spirit of freemasonry that made all men free of water and grass at rest. It remained for the Broken Spur to force old Joe Carr to defend his title to those Springs by fencing them and barring them to the public. It made him none too popular. Where old Joe had once been the Nestor of the cattle men in Seco Valley, he was likely to become their Thersites, thanks to the machinations of Dustin and Goddard. He knew the cause of it all. He knew that drink added to the spirit of aggravation already aroused by Dustin and Goddard was making him unpopular where he had once been a favorite, but he could not give way. Finally, dour, silent because he had none to talk to, bitter with hate and wrath at his own inability to keep abreast of the times, he saw his ranch slipping into the cattle depression. It did not improve his temper to note the success of the Broken Spur.

Ninety Years Ago Czar Liberal With Windsor Castle Servants

Reporting to a reported tip of $200 among the staff of a Budapest hotel after a week-end stay by the King of Siam a London journalist recalls when Czar Nicholas I visited England 90 years ago and stayed at Windsor Castle for Ascot week he gave the Royal housekeeper $5,000 and distributed $10,000 among the servants.

Each of the leading members of the household received a gold snuffbox with the Imperial guest's portrait set in diamonds, valued at $2,500 and there was quite literally a stockful of rings, watches, pins and brooches for the Master of the Household to dole out among the lesser officials.

NORTH AMERICAN WHEAT SITUATION

(Total Annual Average Wheat Production
—1200 Million Bushels)

Due to attempts to maintain the price of wheat in 1929 and 1930, the United States and Canada piled up large unsold wheat surpluses which were carried over into the present year. Last year's favorable harvests decreased the surplus in the United States by one hundred million bushels. This present year's disastrous crop of wheat and coarse grains in both the U.S.A., Canada and other countries, coupled with an increasing world demand for wheat for bread purposes, and to a certain extent to meet the demand for flour, has caused some surpluses down almost to a normal amount, i.e. the "Carry-over" existing before 1928. If this proves to be correct then normal prices for wheat, in relationship to other commodities, should prevail.

Economic Conference Is Held at Stettler

The sixth of a series of Economic Conferences held under the auspices of the Liberal Party of Alberta, was held at Stettler last Saturday. Upwards of 400 people were present at the afternoon session and at the evening meeting the hall was crowded to listen to stirring addresses by W. R. Howson, Liberal leader, Hon. Chas. Stewart, M. P., L. A. Giroix, M.L.A., and others who spoke more briefly.

Resolutions passed at the afternoon meeting after a thorough discussion, the conference voted in favor of the following:

1. That the voting age limit be set at 18 years instead of 21.
2. Free speech, free press, and a free parliament.
3. That the State keep public expenditures within the means of taxpayers to pay.
4. That the State owes a debt to returned men that should be paid.

In speaking to this resolution Col. Eaton, of Stettler, pleaded that the returned soldier settler behind in his payments should be given special privilege. He should not be evicted but the government should permit him to remain for another three year period, content to take a third of his crop as payment.

Dr. Staples, of Calgary, spoke on educational matters, urging enlargement of rural school districts, and pooling of all rural school district debenture debts and make governmental payments. The conference decided against this.

Paul Parnall, president of the Rural Municipal Association of Alberta, advocated a more efficient tax collection system, and contribution from general revenues for hail insurance.

N. E. "Bill" Puffer championed the cause of the William Pearce Water Diversion Scheme, a plan which would benefit 50,000 square miles in central Alberta and change climatic conditions in the drought area. Under it, waters from the Clearwater and Red Deer rivers would be carried into a natural canyon eight miles south of Lacombe, where it would be dammed and held as a reserve supply for a large area.

J. M. Dillon, rancher, urged home market preference, pointing out that 15,000,000 pounds of Argentine beef was shipped into Canada yearly. He suggested that Canada's surplus beef supply would just about fit the United States annual import need, and urged that steps be taken to secure this market for Canadian producers.

Hugh Montgomery, M.L.A., of Wetaskiwin, spoke on the telephone situation and urged farmers to organize small companies and take over the lines as this was the only way left now to save any part of it.

Other similar gatherings are scheduled for Vermilion on October 29th, and Edmonton on November 7th. All workable ideas emanating from these conferences will be embodied in the Liberal platform.

Camrose Liberals To Select Bearer

Camrose, Oct. 15.—A convention for the selection of a Liberal candidate to contest the Camrose federal constituency at the coming election will be held at Camrose on Friday, Nov. 16th. The names of several prominent Liberals have already been mentioned as willing to stand for nomination, among whom are; George P. Smith of Camrose, former minister of education for Alberta, D. R. McIvor, merchant of Stettler who has contested the seat in the last two elections, and C. Purvis, lawyer, of Viking.

Scott McLennan of Mervin has also been mentioned as a likely candidate.

C. G. I. T. Conference Most Successful Event

A most successful conference of C. G. I. T. members and leaders was held on Saturday, October 13th, in the United Church hall, under the direction of Miss Constance Smith, secretary of Girls' Work for Alberta. There were seventy girls in attendance, forty of whom were from the neighboring towns of Irma, Jarrow, Kinsella, Ryley and Holden. There were twelve leaders present.

The program included games, discussion groups, interest groups on foreign missions, handicraft, books, writing services, and sing-songs. A very fine display of exhibits from foreign lands was collected by Mrs. Scott's Sunday school class and Mrs. Scott, in her fine talk on missions, dealt mainly with India, as that is the country which the group will study in their work this year.

Mrs. Boneworth of Holden displayed a fine exhibit of handicraft, which will be very useful to the girls in their work this season. Miss Constance Smith dealt with the subject "How to become a recognized group," which proved most interesting.

Discussion groups on "Crusaders for Peace" were taken by Miss Phyllis Collier, Mrs. Boardman, Miss Scott and Mrs. Dean.

The lively games and sing-songs were directed by Miss Smith in her very capable and charming manner.

Officers of the conference were chosen as follows: President, Miss Edna Rosen, Viking; Secretary, Miss Agnes Olson, Holden; Press Reporter, Miss Vimy Murray, Kinsella.

The girls from out of town were billeted over in Viking homes for the noon meal and Mrs. Dean, registrar for the conference, wishes to express hearty thanks to all who so kindly helped in this way. The leaders present were entertained at noon by Mrs. H. B. Collier and Mrs. B. Hilliker at the Collier home and much thanks is due these ladies for the sumptuous meal enjoyed. A leaders' session took place during the noon hour at which the leaders discussed many subjects common in their work among the girls.

A picnic supper was served at 5.30 p.m. for all who could stay.

After the last worship service at 8 o'clock, the visiting delegates and leaders left for their homes. Viking was highly honored in having such a fine conference and is duly thankful to Miss Smith for her visit to our town, and to those from other towns who helped make the conference such a success.

Social Credit Party Not To Be In Contest

Edmonton, Oct. 16.—A meeting of the executive of the Alberta Douglas Social Credit Association was held in the Corona hotel Oct. 6 and 7. There were present, President J. H. Ross of Calgary, Herbert C. Boyd of Edmonton, Norman Jaques of Mirror, Sydney H. Cliffe of Edson, and W. D. Diamond of Edmonton. W. T. Lucas, M.P. for Camrose, who was staying in the hotel at the time, was invited to take part in the deliberations.

The business covered a variety of matters including membership fees, training of speakers with certificates of qualification to be given after satisfactory examination, appointment of organizer and financing, and the publication of pamphlets and the Association's paper, The Social Justice Advocate.

The question of political action was considered, and in the motion of Mr. Boyd the following resolution was adopted:

"Having regard to the comments on the Australian elections by the leading Social Credit papers of the world on the wisdom of independent political action, this executive is of the opinion that it is wiser not to make an attempt to form a Social Credit party, but to operate within the existing political parties, according to the attitude adopted towards Social Credit by the candidates of whatever political colour."

American Fighter To Fight Wenstob Friday

Edmonton, Oct. 15.—Lee Savoldi, widely known light-heavyweight of St. Paul, Minn., was signed yesterday by Promoter "Kap" Kaplan to meet the popular Eddie Wenstob in a feature 10-round bout that will headline his boxing card at the New Empire theatre on Friday night of this week.

Nearly a couple of weeks of hunting for an opponent for his fighter by Kaplan resulted finally in the securing of Savoldi over the week-end. His search extended to every important fight centre of northwestern United States and Canada until he was at last satisfied that Savoldi was the man he wanted. The St. Paul bantam has a fine reputation across the border and has met most of the outstanding men in the light-weight class.

Almost rivalling the main event as an attraction is the semi-windup which brings together "Wildcat" Carter and Mickey Dolan. Carter, an Edmonton colored boy who was raised in the city until he was 12 years old, became famous as a lightweight on the Pacific Coast and was one of the most popular fighters Seattle had in many years. This will be the first time he has ever fought in his home town but he has been training here for over a week and is anxious to show city fans just what he can do. Dolan, who also fought a lot on the Coast, is anxious to make a real impression on the negro batter.

Still another good bout has been lined up, with George Scott, of Viking, meeting Johnny Blochlinger, popular Edmonton welter-weight. Scott has appeared in both previous shows promoted by Kaplan and has made a great hit with fans here, while Blochlinger will be making his Edmonton debut as a professional.

First bout will start at 8.30 p.m. Friday.

Prominent British parliamentarians are visiting the Maritime Provinces this year, including Sir Michael Ward, member of the House of Commons, and the Canadian Pacific liner Montcalm recently carried as a passenger Dr. E. Leslie Burgie, M.P. for parliamentarian of the British Board of Trade, who will stay at St. Andrews-by-the-Sea, Saint John and Digby, N.S.

Canadian Pacific flagship Empress of Britain claimed a new record recently for the Quebec-Cherbourg run, making the 10,000 miles trip in four days, six hours and fifty-eight minutes, being thirty-four minutes under her own previous record set in August, 1933.

Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, whose evasive tactics have given newspaper men a field of study in the past few years, actually posed for a photograph aboard Canadian Pacific liner Duchess of Bedford on his return to England recently. "We've got to get him on the straight," was his comment to the astonished and gratified photographer.

Railway building is by no means at an end in Canada, E. W. Beatty, K.C., chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, stated recently following an extended inspection trip through Western Ontario. Completion of our development of more railway mileage to outlying districts as prospects and development warrant," he said.

Tom Wilson, trail-blazer, trapper, hunter, Indian guide and veteran explorer, world-known for his work in the Rockies and Emerald Lake in the Rockies, and Great Divide recently, was in his 75th year.

A generous supply of British capital awaits investment in Canada, Sir Herbert Samuel, leader of the Liberal party and member of parliament, told the Royal Canadian Legion Hall of the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, recently.

The world's largest map of Canada, 30 feet high and 100 feet long, painted by Montreal artist on canvas, was shown at the Royal York Hotel, Chicago World Fair, as a joint display of the Dominion Government, the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian National Railways. Given by the Canadian government, it is one of the most popular exhibits of the great fair.

Sir William Stanton, Carlton Club, Pall Mall, London, who was a delegate to the meeting of the Institute of Pacific Relations held at the Banff Springs Hotel, in August, recently, conducted a successful fishing trip to the upper waters of the St. John River near Perth. Having fished in Ireland and Norway, Sir William stated that the St. John Salmon could not be beaten for fighting qualities and average size.

THE PROPER CARE OF YOUR AUTOMOBILE

Two Methods of Polishing

It has been told how the color and lustre of your automobile can be maintained by the use of a liquid polish formulated especially. There are two accepted methods of polishing, the one by using a combination cleaner and polish of the liquid type, and the other by using a cloth and wax.

While the use of the liquid polish is less work, and will restore the lustre to your car in one operation, it doesn't last long and won't prevent scratches appearing.

The second method involves two operations, and while harder work, will preserve the finish for months. The triple film must first be cleaned off with a solid abrasive polish or cleaner. When the finish is thoroughly dry and clean, the polishing wax is applied with a ball of soft cloth which has been dampened.

Next: "Care of Closed Car Tops" and wrung "dry." The wax should be puréed until it is thin enough to fill out the ultra-violet rays of the sun. When you wax your car, you apply a thin transparent film over the entire surface which, in addition to improving its appearance, protects the finish from weathering.

It is easier, also, to keep the waxed surface clean as dust and dirt can be wiped off much easier.

If given this attention a car will retain its good looks for years and its metal will last a remarkably long time.

Work commenced this week on the foundation for the new Anglican church which is to be built on the lot just south of the Anglican mission hall which has been used for church purposes for some years. The structure will be in the shape of a cross, with dimensions 44x23 feet, with a tower on the west end. The church was designed by Architect Mr. Calderon of Edmonton, who designed the $17000.00 Anglican church and all government buildings at Jasper Park. The church is expected to be finished and ready for use by December 15th.

Situated on the north end of main street it will make an imposing addition to the town.

The building of a new church has been under contemplation for some time and the decision to go on with the work was recently made. As the undertaking is important to the entire district a subscription list is being circulated and those wishing to assist may leave their donations with Mr. Cary at the bank or with Rev. Mr. T. J. Mathews.

The appeal for a carload of vegetables and potatoes to be sent from the Viking district to the stricken drought areas of south-eastern Alberta has not met with a very ready response, and unless contributions come in, the project will have to be dropped. The appeal has been sponsored by the executives of the U.F.A. locals and the Viking Chamber of Commerce, and president S. Lefsrud points out that it is of utmost importance that the shipment must be made before cold weather sets in.

Mr. Primett has the list at the post office, and if enough donations are received this week to at least make it worth while shipping, it will go forward on its mission otherwise not.

Johnnie Walsh, heavyweight boxer and promoter of Minburn, was a visitor in town on Friday. He has spent the summer on his farm in the Minburn district, and is rounding into shape for the winter's campaign. He is quite keen on staging a boxing program in the local Elks hall in the near future and is trying to match himself with "Terrible Tebo" of Grande Prairie as a headliner, and Geo. Scott, of Viking, and Gordon Williams, of Edmonton, as a semi-final. He will report progress in later issues of this paper.

Those in attendance from the Sedgewick constituency at the Economic Conference held at Stettler last Saturday, were, Scott McLean and Robt. Peacock; of Merna; Messrs. McNab and L. J. Shepherd of Alliance; J. H. Caldwell of Killam; Messrs. A. A. Burnham, C. G. Purvis, W. C. Bissell and H. G. Thunell, of Viking; J. W. Stensaas, of Bruce.

A joint meeting of the Alberta Hospitals Association and Alberta Association of Registered Nurses was held in Edmonton last Wednesday. Much routine business in connection with hospitals and the nursing fraternity occupied the time of the convention. H. Rollans was delegate from the local hospital, and Miss Beattie, former matron, now of Drumheller Hospital, was in attendance at the sessions.

Joe Mah, former proprietor of the Star Laundry here, has returned and has again taken over the business. Joe Mah left here about nine years ago for Edmonton where he operated a laundry for five years. For the past four years he has been with the Lamont hospital in the laundry department. He will give patrons the good service they had while he was here before.

Mrs. Duncan McDonald and children, Helen, Bobbie and Barbara, were visiting last Tuesday at the Convent, Wainwright. Little Helen remained there where she will attend the school at the convent.

The Y.W.C.A.T.U. meeting has been postponed from Wednesday, October 17th, to Wednesday, October 24th, and is to be held at the home of Miss Mary Hilliker.

Ratepayers should remember that in order to take advantage of the 10 per cent discount, taxes for the Village and School District must be paid on or before November 1st.

Mrs. S. Robinson has returned to her home in Edmonton after being the guest of friends here the past two weeks. During her stay here several tea and bridge parties were held in her honor.

On Thursday, October 18th, the Women's Institute will hold their regular meeting in the church hall. Dr. Haworth will be the guest speaker. Hostesses, Mrs. H. Hilliker and Mrs. Gares.

Among the enumerators who began "counting noses" in this district this week are Messrs. P. A. Main, H. A. Meredith, A. A. Burnham, and Nels Hafso.

Cormac is enumerator for the Camp Lake district.

This is "Apple Week" at Hilliker Bros. A carload of fresh crisp apples is being sold direct to the public from the car on track.

THE hunting season is here. In Canada the wine of early frosts is in the air and the maples, like gold against the dark friend evergreen, proclaim that once again the red gods hold high carnival. The deer are in their best—the moose is sleek and bony, the buck deer has his horns bushy, the bear fancy, the coat of the black bear shines like silk and the lustrous robes of the grizzly is a study in dark and grey. The big-horn sheep is restless and alert, the mountain goat snow white and the caribou in the prime. The grouse and woodcock are plump and contented in the ditches and gullies are gathering in favorite feeding grounds in preparation for their long flight south.

The game areas of Canada, scattered from ocean to ocean, are readily accessible from any part of the continent. It is not a country for the wealthy sportsman only; the hunter with moderate means may also be suited. Local residents can enjoy a trip at a very reasonable cost. Sportsmen from other lands are welcome and are only asked to show their appreciation of the privilege of hunting here by observing the ethics of sportsmanship.

A publication entitled "Canada's Game Fields" which should be of interest to sportsmen having a hunting trip to Canada may now be had upon application to the National Parks of Canada, Department of the Interior, Ottawa.

Get Your Name On Lists
Or You Cannot Get Vote

Enumerators under the new Dominion Franchise Act started the compilation of voters' lists on Monday morning, and are expected to complete their work by Tuesday, October 23. The lists will then be posted, and each enumerator will hold a court of revision November 13, 14 and 15. Persons whose names have been left off the first or preliminary lists, may have them added at this court of revision.

BUT, persons whose names are left off the preliminary lists, and who are not put on at this court of revision, WILL NOT HAVE A VOTE at the next Dominion election. Voters can no longer "swear in" their vote if their name does not appear on the list.

It is therefore up to each voter to see to it that his name is properly listed and properly spelled. Do not blame some person else if you lose your vote through not being listed.

Lessons Of The Depression

Perhaps the wish is father to the thought but it is quite evident that, in steadily increasing degree, people are expressing the view that the depression which has hung over the world like a fog for the past five years is lifting, slowly perhaps but nevertheless surely, and that gleams of sunlight are appearing through for the encouragement of mankind and the restoration of confidence.

In support of this view statistics are quoted of increased business, rising prices, more employment, increased revenues for the railways, rising national revenues. Betterments of this kind are noted, not in one but in many countries, and from many quarters come reports that there is a growing tendency on the part of people with money to invest, to again proceed to do so.

Whether this more optimistic viewpoint is justified we are not in a position to say, and it is just possible that the statistical betterment noted is the result of the injection of artificial stimulants into the arteries of business by governmental bodies, rather than the outcome of a natural and more substantial improvement in conditions. Whatever may be the underlying cause of this slowly returning confidence, it is undeniable that it exists, and people believe that the tide waters which have been running so strongly in an adverse direction for so long have passed the peak and are now beginning to flow in an opposite and more favorable direction.

Coupled with this, there is recognition in Western Canada that, while such betterments may be seen in other parts of the country and the world, there can be no marked improvement throughout this section of the Dominion until it is blessed with more favorable and normal climatic conditions, resulting in some profitable return to our agricultural population for the continuous labor they have expended. Unemployment has not been the curse of the vast majority of Western people. They have worked long and arduous hours, 365 days in the year, but Nature in an unkempt mood for some years past has denied to our working farmers any profitable return from their labor; in fact, in thousands of cases no return at all. Loss has been added to loss, and the cumulative effect has been to throw tens of thousands of other people out of employment because there was no work to be had. Such climatic conditions will not permanently continue.

Possibly one of the best indications that the depression is passing is that people are beginning to take note of the lessons which it has taught. Some of these are of a purely material and practical kind. For instance and despite a certain school of thought which urges that man should plan his activities from year to year, and, as nearly as possible, balance production with consumption, there is a growing recognition of the wisdom displayed in Egypt in the days of the Pharaohs when under the guidance of Joseph they laid by and accumulated reserves in the years of plenty to carry them through the lean years. It is more and more coming to be accepted as a truth that in Western Canada we must do likewise.

But above and beyond the material lessons taught by the depression, lessons, it is to be hoped, that have been well learned by many—there are moral, ethical, spiritual lessons, the importance and significance of which will, it is also to be hoped, leave a lasting impression.

Ritchie, the famous prize-fighter, is reported to have once said that he never knew how good he was until he got his first licking. Many of us have taken a pretty severe licking in different ways during the past five years. It sometimes does a man good to be thoroughly floored. It may call up reserves of energy that he never realized were his. And this seems to be, ought to be, to the credit side of the depression. Adversity brings out the strength of character of men and women, or the lack of it. Seemingly strong men have gone down and gone under; others have displayed an initiative and developed traits of character and strength which even they did not know they possessed.

Assuming that the fog of the depression is lifting, and that we are again slowly emerging into the sunlight of more prosperous times, now is a good time to take stock of what the depression has actually done to us and taught us as individuals and as a nation. If we correctly size ourselves up as individuals, and profit by our inventory of ourselves, the nation will be better, stronger, more enduring. This, then, is a time for realistic balance sheets—balance sheets of character, of habits, of motives, as well as, and even more important in the final analysis than balance sheets of money, stocks, bonds and chattels.

"I have just taken a real inventory," said a man who has had his full share of bad business breaks. "I've thrown out a lot of stuff I used to carry as assets. For instance, I carried on my payroll a lot of useless luxuries that were called 'friends'. When I couldn't manage the upkeep any longer, I let them go. Then I found out that they had been standing in front of people that really were friends. I'd been spending time and money on people that didn't mean a thing to me, and neglecting those who did. Now I see a few special people often, and have a better time with them. I think, on the whole, I've come through the depression pretty well. The cash value of my estate has shrunk considerably, but that's balanced by a big increase in what can't be measured by any yardstick of dollars and cents. The result is, my net worth is greater. There's a good side to going broke."

How many people have been wasting time, money and energy upon things that really do not count, and neglecting those that are worthwhile and make life what it ought to be and was intended by an all-wise Creator to be.

Has the depression taught you who reads this any lessons? Are you a better man or woman because of the depression, or have you revealed weaknesses of character and slipped? Are you now showing determination to profit by the lessons learned. If so, with all its worries and difficulties and even sufferings, the depression may be turned to good account. It's up to you.

This he accomplished in 70 days in the depth of winter, accompanied by his wife and two small children. It was a very remarkable journey, though he seemed to regard it as of no account."

Glaciers Move Backwards

Unusual Happening In Switzerland

Explained By Scientists

No fewer than 81 of 100 glaciers in Switzerland which have been under observation by the Society of Natural Sciences are reported to be moving backwards. Of the remainder, 15 are moving forward and four are standing still. The scientists say that the 81 glaciers are moving backwards because they are melting more quickly at their "ends" than they are being pushed forward.

Siren Warns About Tides

Quicksands In France Trap For Feet Of Unwary

Mont Saint-Michel, most photographed French landmark, is to be provided with sirens against the peril of the sea.

Debate on the advisability of protecting strollers along the quicksands, incidentally, has led to the discovery that there is no such thing as being swallowed up by these ocean-side bogs.

Many an ancient Breton mariner, it was revealed, has been caught in quicksands and survived. The question is one of time. Rarely is a man sucked down to above the waistline, because the subsoil is firm at that level, but many have been caught at a time when the tide was coming in and drowned.

The danger is that of drowning when the tide comes up from seemingly nowhere filling the vast reaches of sand with furious torrents and treacherous eddies.

Victims more often than not are visitors who start out for the rocky island of Tombelaine, and fooled by their calculations of distance and time into being trapped by the tide.

Some, of course, are caught in quicksands and are unable to free themselves before the tide gets up to their chins. Seized with panic even if caught only up to their knees, they struggle frantically, and although it is not true that they sink into the sand, it is true that their methodless struggles prevent them from getting free.

A siren on the hill, it is argued, would warn these travellers to turn back in time. It also is proposed to erect concrete "islands" at various points for the protection of promenaders caught by the tide.

Old Ship Scuttled

Otago Was Once Commanded By Conrad The Novelist

Sixty-three years ago a small sailing ship of 348 tons, the Otago, left Liverpool for Port Chalmers, New Zealand. She did the voyage in the almost record time of 85 days, and many were the yarns told of her, both in the town and at her destination.

Now she has been taken out to sea for the last time and scuttled. It just did not pay to break her up. But her past was a tale of romance. She was once the command of Joseph Conrad, novelist, and later he made references to her in his books—"The Mirror of the Sea," "Falk," and "The Shadow Line."

Built in 1869, she put up some fine performances. Once she sailed 306 miles in 24 hours. Her last days were spent as a coal hulk in Hobart, Tasmania, a battered but proud vessel.

League of Nations Society In Canada

Organizing Mass Meeting

Cannabis is vitally interested in world peace: Primarily this is true because the humanitarian outlook of our people and because of the stress we rightly place upon law and order in all realms, not excluding that of international affairs. This general outlook is strengthened for us by two special considerations. Firstly, our position as a member of the British Commonwealth would make it exceedingly difficult for us to avoid becoming involved in any large-scale conflict. Secondly, our trade position as a great exporting country makes it exceedingly important for us that confidence, peace and financial stability be restored throughout the world.

The League of Nations Society in Canada is organizing a series of mass meetings throughout Canada late in October, 1934, with a view to bringing these and other important considerations before our people and developing a sound public opinion in support of the maintenance of peace. The three signatories hereto, being the Saskatchewan members of the National Council of the Society, urge all communities in Saskatchewan to join with the rest of Canada in this demonstration by organizing local meetings and addresses at that time. Programs and necessary information and assistance can be obtained from the Society's office, 124 Wellington Street, Ottawa, on request.

Canada is not a militaristic nation, but the best safeguard against its becoming so and the best assurance of our influence remaining a steady one at Geneva and elsewhere abroad is the development of a strong public opinion within our own country. We therefore confidently and earnestly commend this program to our fellow citizens of Saskatchewan. L. C. Brouillet, Regina; Andrew S. Sibbald, Saskatoon; (Mrs.) Violet McNaughton, Saskatoon.

Butter, cheese, bran and pollard, oilmeal and oilcake, oats, wheat and rye flour, lard, bacon and ham, salted beef and pork, condensed milk, refined sugar, unmanufactured, unstemmed leaf tobacco, potatoes, onions and lubricating oil are some of the agricultural products supplied by Canada to Barbados, the most easterly island of the British West Indies.

All the new submarines built for the British navy have two safety devices, one consisting of eye-boats to which divers may attach a harrow in case of need, and the other being a battery of buoys which can be released from within the vessel to permit communication with rescuers.

—ASPIRIN DOES NOT HARM THE HEART—

A MORNING WITH MRS. E. ECONOMY

8 a.m. She makes up the children's lunches. "I wrap the sandwiches in Para-San Heavy Waxed Paper," she says, "because I know that Para-San will not melt. In fact, it is Para-San from the green box of four times each day—for lining cake pans, keeping celery crisp and protecting food freshness and flavor."

But Keene decided to go see what was happening for himself—not as Gerald Keene, half owner of the Broken Spur Ranch, but as Duro Stone, trader and a Montgomery Ward warehouse outfit.

Dad Kane, desert rat and luckless prospector till now, is returning to tell Duro and Spike Goddard, owners of the Broken Spur Ranch, what he has grubstaked him, of his discovery of a rich gold mine, and shows samples of the ore. He sees Broken Spur men rusting Hour-glass cattle and protests against it.

(Now Go On With The Story)

For a moment silence held both men. They knew the old foolish legend of the Mother Lode and they knew, too, that old desert rats like old Kane, believed in it while vigorously protesting their disbelief; that foolish old tale that says that all gold is fermented and thrown out from a central body as the human heart sends blood to the distant parts of the body and that the tiny veins of gold, if found and traced back to their origin, will lead to the great Mother Lode where gold is made.

"Mother Lode hell," quoth Dustin hotly. "Where'd you find that? Is it far from here?"

"Four days' travel even with them trained asses of mine. Ever read your Bible, Dustin? It's sure worth readin'. There's a lot o' good readin' in the Bible. It tells about a feller named Saul. He was a peach, too. He was a kind of a prospector same as me. His burros got loose same as mine done. He went to trail 'em and he found a kingdom. I done the same. Mine got loose an' I followed 'em up Red Water canon. . . . Look here"

He fished futilely in his pocket, withdrew his hand and swore wildly. Then he slapped every pocket.

"I've done lost it," he said hoarsely. "I put down all the directions in my notebook of course. It don't make no real difference. I can trail back there at night if I have to but I don't like losin' a notebook that tells about all I know. I had it just before I seen Gray an' Corse with the wagon."

"Maybe they found it," suggested Dustin.

"It won't help 'em none if they did, I reckon. But I'd sure like to have it back. It's got all my accounts with you gentlemen in it. It was Red Water canon like I said"

"That's on Hour-glass land," said Dustin.

"Who knows it if I don't? That was when I seen the wagon. I was comin' back from huntin' my stray burros when I stumbled on a piece o' good lookin' float. I put it in my pocket and went back to trace the vein. I found the vein on the hillside and located it and come back. I was aimin' to build me a fire and roast the ore to see what it was like. I had made all the entries in my notebook like I always do. Then as I come over the ridge I seen the smoke and the wagon and then I seen the Broken Spur men at work on the Hour-glass cattle. They left and I made my camp in the bottom. Then I went back and looked into the matter o' the vein. I got out two little sacks of ore. It'll assay two thousand to the ton or I'm a Mormon"

"Huh! You've been spendin' a lot of time locatin' a gold mine for old man Carr on the Hour-glass land," said Dustin sneeringly. "A minute ago you were accusin' us of stealin' the Hour-glass cattle. Now you're locatin' a gold mine on the same land"

"Minerals is different," said Kane hotly. "You know that. Even a cow-puncher knows that. This is a mine! Any man in the West knows minin' law. The man who finds a vein of ore kin' folter it even under patented land: The only thing is the other man mustn't find it first. I've only got to prove that I was the first to find it."

Dustin nodded and Spike too. They knew that anomaly of law that is not justice at all times.

"All the same," said Dustin, "it makes a difference. If Gray and Corse steal a few cattle, that's one thing. If you aim to steal a whole hillside full o' gold that's different. That's finance."

Kane swore gustily.

"Hour-glass or not Hour-glass," he said hotly, "I found the vein. I mean to folter that lead if it takes me plumb in to hell and I have to pan with sulphur water hot from hellfire."

"Old man Carr may be willin' to sell the mineral rights," said Goddard sarcastically.

"Don't be a fool" Dustin's face was grave. "The minute you ask Carr about selling mineral rights, you as good as tell him what he's got. He wouldn't sell a cup o' water to keep us from dyin' of thirst. Of course there's a way to get 'em. In fact, I can think of two ways right now. We've got to get those mineral rights and get 'em quick . . . before the Hour-glass finds out about 'em."

"Joe Carr don't even suspect any ore on his land," said Kane.

"So much the better," quoth Dustin curtly. "You go on into the kitchen and get your supper, Dad," he said heartily. "We'll talk it over later. . . . He held his partner by the sleeve till old Kane disappeared into the kitchen. "Come on into the office, Spike," he said curtly. "I want to talk this over with you before old Dad gets back."

Spike nodded, shouted to the cook to bring some coffee to them in the office and followed Dustin into the office and closed the door.

CHAPTER III.

The moment the office-door closed, Dustin turned sharply on his partner. It was at once clear that Dustin was the dominant personality. He might defer at times to Spike because of that worthy's virulent tongue when aroused to speech but Spike's attitude showed that he was dominated and controlled by his partner.

"We've got to do something and do it quick," said Dustin. "Old Dad Kane is bound to talk. He just can't help it. And if once word gets out that he's found rich ore even on Hour-glass land, there'll sure be hell to pay. Red Water canon is clearly on the Hour-glass. I wish the old fool hadn't lost that note-book. I'm afraid to ask Gray and Corse about it. They'd double cross us in a second if they got wind of a find like this the old fool's made."

"Think old man Carr would sell if he's properly approached?" suggested Spike.

"Huh. Would you sell if you were in his place? That's the answer. Even to mention the possibility of buyin' the rights from him would make him post the ranch against trespassers. Where'd we be then? I'm not worryin' much about old Carr. I got him as good as sewed up in a sack with head and feet stickin' out. It's bigger than Carr, I'm aimin' at."

"Huh. You talk like a fool," said Spike sharply. "How kin I say you got old Carr sewed up in a sack when you dassent even tie your pony to his tie-rack when you want to see that red-headed girl of his? You got the owner of the Hour-glass dead to rights? Huh. You make out to ride down to Seeo to git the mail when there ain't no mail just 'cause you want to git another look at that red-headed Edith Carr. You make me tired."

For just one brief moment Spike Goddard stood on the bare edge of red tragedy. He saw in his partner's eyes such a glare of utter hate that he fairly shrank back at what he saw. For a full half minute Dustin stared at him fiercely; then he laughed. Spike drew a breath of relief.

"No use lookin' at me like you want to kill me," he said awkwardly. "I'm only tellin' you what all the Valley knows."

"About what, you damned fool?" snapped Dustin. "Of course old Joe Carr and I did have a row some three years ago. That was when your dad's clumsy messin' up with his cows. If I want to tie my horse to the Hour-glass tie-rack, I'll ask no man's permission. Get that? Put that in your pipe and smoke it."

"You will like hell," snarled Spike. "Of course we as welcome there as a rattler in a prairie dog's hole. . . . That was just the one remark needed. Dustin exploded.

"And any time I happen to want Edith Carr, she'll come to heel and mind what I say and don't you forget it. . . ."

"I hear you. I heard a lot o' things I don't believe. That suit that you started over Soda Springs ain't the right invitation to dinner at the Hour-glass."

"All right. Don't believe me then. There's more ways to reach a girl than by pettin' an' neckin' as they call it now."

"I hear you. . . ."

Opium Concealed In Chinese Hats Seized At Rangoon

Smugged opium was discovered concealed in the rim of several thousand bands of broad-brimmed Chinese hats awaiting shipment to Rangoon. The railway station officials, observing the shipper's agitation, summoned the Excise staff who opened the consignment. Brand new hats were found, but the Excise staff were not satisfied and proceeded to inspect every inch of each hat. Round the brim of each hat a layer of opium, wrapped in tissue paper, was found.

All the hats were found to contain a small quantity of opium. When discovered the man broke down and cried. He said that he and his family had spent a whole year in packing the opium in the hats, for which service they expected heavy remuneration.

News From The Capital
By T. B. Windross

Edmonton, Alta., Oct. 16.—Perhaps the most important news as far as Edmonton is concerned is that concerning the success of a new method of separating the bituminous products from the McMurray tar sands, announcement of which came Saturday from Toronto. Experiments have been finally completely successful and the fact will open up a rich field of natural resources to industry. The benefit will not only accrue to Edmonton but to the whole of the province indirectly.

The new process will make sufficient oil available to supply the British Empire and the important fact is that it will make the empire independent of foreign supplier of crude oil. A method of treating the McMurray sands, invented by Max Ball of Denver, promises to solve the problem of separating the oil from the sands.

Dots of oil sands at the northern area covers 15,000 square miles and varies in depth from 150 to 220 feet. Analysis of samples has shown 15 to 18 per cent bituminous material.

Much interest has been aroused here by the recent announcement in the press from Ottawa that Canada has reached a tentative agreement with the United States to permit commercial and military aeroplanes to cross western Canada and use Canadian airports in connection with the projected air service from the U. S. to the Orient and Alaska.

Edmonton has one of the finest airports on the continent and it will be one of the ports of all for the new Pan American air service when it starts. There is some doubt expressed in some quarters as to what would happen should war break out between the United States and Japan. Would the airports in Canada used by American airships in times of peace be used in case of war? That is the question confronting many people. It is indicated, however, that the question of neutrality in case of war is being thoroughly canvassed and that the Canadian government will not enter into any permanent agreement that will endanger the peace and goodwill of Canada with other countries. No permanent agreement has been reached yet.

A carload of work horses for use in Newfoundland lumber woods is being purchased in Alberta by a buyer from Deer Lake, Nfld. A good type of horse weighing around 1600 pounds is wanted, according to word received here from Clive, where the buyer has been. The average price paid is said to be around $120 per team.

A report from Lloydminster states that a shipment of rattlesnakes has been sent from that locality to China. The snakes are wanted for medicinal purposes. A medicine for the cure of rheumatism is extracted from them. The man who shipped them has an order for 200, for which he is being paid well, he says.

"I seldom think of my audience when I am singing," said a local lady singer. "But you ought to have some consideration for them, dear," remarked one of her lady friends.

LETTER TO EDITOR

The Editor,
Dear Sir—

Will you kindly print the following appeal in your esteemed and valuable paper, and so give your readers an opportunity of helping to meet the needs of the people in the drought area?

Thanking you in anticipation, I remain, gratefully yours,

Rev. J. T. Gauthrop, Minister,
United Church, Kincaid, Sask.

Dear Reader—

For the sixth successive year this district has experienced drought and consequently, crop failure. Our minister of agriculture, Hon. J. G. Taggart says this is the worst year since the drought commenced. Can you visualize what this means to people who have passed through these six years to meet each year with worn-out farm machinery; with inadequate clothing and bedding, and with many things in the home in need of replacement? It has been a heart-breaking experience this past summer after such a promising start, to see the crops wither and burn up under the scorching July sun.

The outlook for the future seems dark, and unless rains come this fall, what hope is there for a crop in 1935? Sloughs are drying up, wells are giving out and many farmers are hauling water for miles to keep their stock alive. But we are people who live in HOPE, and we hope to be able to carry on until better times come, for surely the drought cannot last much longer.

For the past five years I have been engaged in relief work and during these years have received help from many parts of Canada which I distributed to the needy people of this district. Last year much clothing and food and Christmas gifts to children were distributed, and were greatly appreciated by those who received them.

We are again planning to carry on our work and I am again appealing to you for help to carry on this most necessary work. We shall not soon forget all that the kind people of Canada have done for us during the past five years and it is this generous help which we have received in the past that makes me confident to make this further appeal.

It is impossible for me to describe the condition of many people in the drought area, but the least that can be said is that the condition is a most desperate one and it is through no fault of their own that the people are faced with such hard times.

Will you kindly remember our work in your prayers and if it is possible for you to assist us with money, used clothing and Christmas gifts for children, will you kindly do so?

Thanking you in anticipation of your sympathy and help, I remain, gratefully yours,

Rev. J. T. Gauthrop, Minister,
United Church, Kincaid, Sask.

SPORT PEEPS

In the University Tennis Tournament Bob Darrah ran up against the experienced, ex-professional champion Bill Stark of Calgary. Stark won the first set by the skin of his teeth. 7-5. Darrah came back and took the second set 6-2, but lost the third and deciding set. Our local boy did well to win 11 games to 9 in the first two stanzas, against such a noted player as Stark. Bob may yet show these top-notchers something fancy in this game.

Several local sports who saw some of the World's Series games over the Journal's mechanical "field" report it as a most unique affair. The crowd seemed all set for Detroit, and when those 11 runs piled up against the favorites it was like a funeral. We would suggest to the Journal the introduction of a loud-speaker in connection with this wonderful board. A good talker would add much to the enjoyment of the crowd, explaining, for instance, the cause of the delay when the crowd laid down that barrage of pop bottles around Medwick after spiking the third baseman of the Tigers.

The Dean brothers have taken the halo that used to float about the head of the great Ruth, and now wear it themselves. For two brothers to win four games, the while four that were necessary in the World's series, is something never heard of before. In fact such a thing may never be done again. These young men are simply marvels. They talk a lot; Dizzy is even gabby; but they deliver the goods. The honors come through success on the diamond after all.

Heard at the poker party: "Does your wife believe everything you tell her?" "Does she? Why she believes a lot of things I would never dream of telling her."
